Why pay at the rate of $2.00 per gallon for insect and mite killer when you can get Creosote for 25 cents per gallon. Creosote is one of the strongest insect destroyers known. Creosote is also the best wood preserver known. Railway and Telephone companies creosote ties and poles, which prevents decay. It also makes an excellent outdoor paint for barns, fences and brick work.

Spray the creosote on the roost and places where mites collect and your chickens will stay fat and lay more eggs.

I will guarantee every claim made for the uses of creosote in this advertisement.

HOMER KING, A STRONG BOOSTER

Homer S. King, formerly president of the Bank of California, at San Francisco, now president of the Panama-Pacific Exposition company, was in Ogden this morning on his way east.

Mr. King is leading the movement launched some time ago in San Francisco to bring the Panama exposition of 1915 to the Golden Gate city. The exposition will mark the opening of the Panama canal and will be held either in San Francisco or New Orleans. Each city has started a vigorous fight to have congress recognize it as the official exposition city. At the present time it appears that the western metropolis has considerable the better of the argument.

Mr. King is making the trip to New York to interest some of the powers of the east in the San Francisco case.

LAWRENCE WILL BE HERE

Plans have been perfected for the State Sunday School convention which opens next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock with an address by Bishop Spaulding of the Episcopal church.

Marion Lawrence, who is perhaps the best known and best informed Sunday school leader in the world, will be present from Wednesday morning on. Mr. Lawrence will speak at each session after his arrival Wednesday.

Mr. Lawrence can be heard in a popular address Wednesday evening at the Methodist church. The delegates of the various Sunday schools are sending in their requests for entertainment daily and, from all appearances, the attendance at the State Sunday School convention will be a very large one. Rev. Carver has already several requests for entertainment and it now seems as

BETTER SERVICE ON CAR LINES

Ogden Rapid Transit is to Have a Seven and a Half Minute Schedule on Washington Between 5 and 7 p. m.—Harrisville People to Obtain Car Service.

Passenger traffic on the Ogden Rapid Transit lines has so grown that the company is forced to provide more adequate service, and, to this end, beginning next Monday, two cars will be placed on the Washington avenue line.

Between Five Points and the High school building, one car will leave Five Points at 8:25 in the morning and the other will leave the same place at 8:35. This is being done for the accommodation of students of the high and sub-high schools, and other educational institutions. Each car will make one trip.

Every evening of each week-day, between the hours of 5 and 7 o'clock, two special cars will be run between Twenty-fifth street and Seventh street, which will afford a 7 1/2 minute service instead of the present 15-minute service. This plan of operation has become imperative, says Superintendent Bailey, in order to relieve the congested condition during those hours of the day and to make it possible to maintain the schedule time of the regular cars on the Washington avenue route.

Another change of importance that will go into effect next Monday will be the alternating of the Washington avenue and city limits car, over the Washington avenue line and the Harrisville line. The Washington avenue car has been, and is now, running to the city limits on Washington avenue, and in order to get to the city, the people on the Harrisville road have been compelled to walk to Washington avenue to catch the car. Under the proposed arrangements, every other car, after next Monday morning, will go to the city limits over the Harrisville line, which means that people can make connections with the Washington avenue car at the city limits on the north on the hour and the half-hour, and at the city limits on the Harrisville line at the quarter-hour before the hour and the quarter-hour after the hour. It means a thirty-minute service from the Harrisville and Washington avenue starting points.

The company is making the change for the accommodation of the people along the Harrisville way and they feel that perfect satisfaction can also be given the Washington avenue patrons of the road.

JUROR CAUSES A SENSATION

Says Innocent Men Are Serving a Prison Sentence for the Killing of Fred McCabe—P. G. Butler Saw the Murderers the Night of the Tragedy.

Parley G. Butler of this city, one of the jurors of the regular panel for the November term of the district court, created quite a sensation in court this morning when he stated that he knew William Reese and Harvey Bass, now in the state penitentiary, are not the men who killed Fred McCabe on Twelfth street, November 28, 1902.

"I know the officers made a mistake in that case and that the wrong men were arrested. I did not testify in the case because they would not let me."

This statement was made in answer to a question by the attorney for the defense in the case of the State vs. Frank Bell and Bell Rio, charged with robbery, before the court for trial today. The question was whether Mr. Butler had ever been connected with a "holdup" and if the fact that officers had arrested a man or men on the charge of robbery would influence his mind either for or against the accused and would render him unfit to sit as a juror in the case. Mr. Butler said that it would not, because he knew that the officers might make a mistake, citing the McCabe murder case as an instance.

It will be remembered that Fred McCabe was shot to death by two highwaymen on Twelfth street, November 28, 1902, immediately after a dance. William Reese and Harvey Bass were arrested and accused of the crime. They were put on trial and convicted, the sentence for Reese being 40 years and that for Bass being 30 years in prison. The men were convicted principally on circumstantial evidence.

Recently Reese and Bass petitioned the state board of pardons, for their release, they still protesting their innocence and claiming they are not the parties who did the killing. Among those who think Reese and Bass innocent is Mr. Butler, who made the statement that a mistake had been made. Mr. Butler was accepted as a juror in the robbery case before the court today, after stating to the attorneys for the state and the defendant that he could give the men a fair and impartial trial and that his mind is not biased against the state's side because of the Reese-Bass affair.

Mr. Butler states that on the night of the killing of Fred McCabe he accompanied two young ladies in a buggy not more than two minutes ahead of Fred McCabe and a companion, and that he saw the men who shot McCabe. They were concealed in the weeds along Twelfth street and when he and his ladies approached they arose from their hiding place, with the evident intention of holding him up, and robbing him of his money. But, Mr. Butler says, he thinks they changed their minds when they saw he had two ladies with him, and he was permitted to pass unmolested. He says he drove near the men and got a good view of them. He stated further that he had seen the same men at about six o'clock of the same evening, their particular build and countenances being strongly impressed upon his mind and that he knows Reese and Bass are not the men.

The petition for pardon has not yet been finally passed upon by the board of pardons, but it is anticipated that it will be within a short time. Mr. Butler says he has appeared before the board and told his story, with the hope that the men may be released.

Mr. Butler says he told the officers at the time of the arrest of Reese and Bass that they were not the right men, but he says he was rather

UNCERTAIN STATE OF MIND

Adolph Mechler, when arraigned in police court this morning, stated that he could not tell whether or not he was unlawfully drunk when arrested. A plea of not guilty was entered by the clerk of the court for the absent-minded prisoner and he will be given a hearing tomorrow morning. Mechler stated that he could remember that he had visited a number of saloons just prior to his arrest, but as to his mental state at the time he was taken in tow by the officers, he did not know.

H. H. Hinegan, whose name followed Mechler's on the court roster, could remember that he was very drunk when haled into court and was fined $5 for the offense of over-indulgence.

John Shayne pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness and was assessed $5 by the court.

Edward Clark, who was arrested for permitting his horse to stand untied on Lincoln avenue did not appear for trial and forfeited $5.

Evans Reese again appeared in court on a charge of unlawful drunkenness and was fined $5 or five days.

George Williams was tendered a fine of $30 or thirty days for appropriating an overcoat which did not belong to him. The theft took place at Five Points a few days ago, the garment being stolen from a saloon. Williams denied that he had stolen the coat, but the evidence of three witnesses who had caught the man with the stolen goods was sufficient proof to convict.

Charged with disturbing the peace by fighting in the presence of ladies, J. D. Hansen and A. Stricker were arraigned, but entered a plea of not guilty and their case was continued. It is claimed that the offense was committed on November 19.

COOK IS ACQUITTED BY MEXICAN JUDGE

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 25.—John A. Cook, the American railroad conductor whose case attracted so much attention a year ago, has been acquitted by Judge Ramsey, of the charge of complicity in robbing freight cars on the main line of the Mexican Central.

Cook and his crew had been arrested because his train had been robbed while en route near Guadalajara. His Mexican train crew were released on bonds, but Cook was held in jail so long that American railroad men petitioned the secretary of state at Washington to demand that he be released. He testified that there was a distinct bargain between himself and Dudley for $1,000, $500 before and $500 after the nomination of Leroy Percy for United States senator. He had received $645 in four installments.

TERMS OF DISTRICT COURT

Judge Howell this morning designated the time for the holding of the various terms of court in the second district court for the ensuing year, the following order being made:

"Pursuant to Section 675, Compiled Laws of Utah, 1907, until otherwise provided by law, or until otherwise ordered by the judge of this court, the terms of court in the Second Judicial district of the state of Utah in the several counties of said district, for the year 1911, shall commence and end as follows:

"Morgan county—Commencing on the first day of each and every month and ending on the second day of such month.

"Weber county—Commencing on the third day of each and every month and ending on the twenty-sixth day of such month.

"Davis county—Commencing on the twenty-seventh day of each and every month and ending on the last day of such month.

"Provided, that if the opening day of any term shall come on a legal holiday, such term shall commence on the day following such holiday, unless such following day shall also be a holiday, in which event the term shall commence on the day thereafter, and when such term shall end upon a legal holiday, such term shall end on the day preceding such holiday.

IDENTIFIES THE MEN AS ROBBERS

Frank Bell and Bell Rio, half-breed Cherokee Indians, are on trial before a jury and Judge Howell in the second district court today for alleged robbery. The jury is composed of the following persons:

Robert Cowan, Charles Webb, C. W. Brooks, Parley G. Butler, Frank Foulger, D. W. Hancock, M. Biel and T. H. Reeder.

The information charged that on July 23, 1910, the defendants held a revolver in the face of N. S. Logren and robbed him of $9 in cash, a money purse and a bunch of keys. The robbery is alleged to have been committed during the early part of the night.

N. S. Logren testified that the two men approached him near the corner of Twenty-fourth street and Washington avenue, just as he was leaving his office for home. They held a revolver on him and rifled his pockets, taking what money he had, his pocket book and a bunch of keys. Mr. Logren said that after the defendants had robbed him, they made their way along Twenty-fourth street as far west as Wall avenue, he following them to that point, where they were lost to view in the darkness.

The witness had no hesitancy in identifying the prisoners as the men who robbed him. He stated that they both, afterwards at the police station, admitted that they had taken his money, but that they hoped he would not undertake to send them to the penitentiary for stealing $9.

DECEMBER LIST OF JURORS

The following persons have been summoned to appear for the December term of court:

TWO FIRE ALARMS ARE TURNED IN

A defective flue at 301 Thirty-first street occasioned the sending of a fire alarm to station No. 1, at 7:30 this morning. The fire fighters found no fire when they arrived at the premises and no damage had been done.

What caused considerable consternation was an alarm of fire at about 1 o'clock this afternoon from the Second Ward meetinghouse, on Twenty-sixth street, between Grant and Lincoln avenues. A broken connection between the furnace pipe and the chimney caused the alarm. The house became filled with smoke, but no damage was done.

TEN MEN PAROLED FROM FEDERAL PRISON

Washington, Nov. 25.—Ten men, sentenced to the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, have been released on parole. These are the first releases under the new law providing that a federal prisoner may be paroled with the approval of the attorney general, after having served one-third of his sentence.

The department of justice will not make public the place of the men or the crimes of which they were convicted. Their names are as follows: Rudolph Bailey, Thomas F. Branch, Doc Killingsworth, Ralph E. Yeates, Angelo Brown, Westly A. Martin, Julian J. Klein, William Bresh, Nelson Jones and Edgar J. Summerhays.

dering as many of their superior officers as was necessary to place them in complete control, trained the guns of the warships on the capital. What the ultimate effect will be on the discipline in the navy, is a matter of concern. The immediate effect is to give the sailors increased pay, fewer hours of service and less work through the recruiting of additions to the crews and to abolish corporal punishment in the fleet.

Following the action of congress, the mutineers went through the formalities of surrendering, and before noon today the city had resumed its normal activities and the public excitement had subsided. While the revolt lasted, the people of the city were kept in a state of suspense, fearing that the mutineers would make good their threat to demolish the capital unless their wishes were met. It is doubtful, however, that they would have taken this step in any event because of the likelihood of complications with Great Britain. At the time of the revolt, James Bryce, ambassador to the United States, was the guest of Baron Rio Branco, the Brazilian foreign minister and he would have been as likely as any one to suffer from bombardment. On the other hand, the mutinous battleship Sao Paulo had aboard several British persons for home.

At the outbreak of the trouble, Sir William H. D. Haggard, British minister to Brazil, notified the Brazilian foreign office that any attempt of the foreign minister to destroy the warship would be attended with danger to British subjects on board. It is also known that the government hesitated to damage the bulkhead of its navy. There was no attempt to give a political color to the revolt. Brazil has but two Dreadnoughts, the Minas Geraes and the Sao Paulo, and these, being joined by the Brazilian defense ships Marshal Floriano and Marshal Deodoro and the scout ship Bahia, the possessors were in practical control of the fleet, and, if necessary to accomplish their ends, probably could have made short work of the smaller craft, consisting of six protected cruisers, three torpedo cruisers and several vessels of the gunboat class.

The trouble among the sailors had been brewing for some time and when the Minas Geraes ran up the red flag Tuesday night, the other vessels soon followed her example. Captain Neves of the Minas and two other officers were killed as were several of the men who attacked the officers. The officers preferred death instead of the surrender of the ship.

Throughout Wednesday and Thursday Rio Janeiro was at the mercy of the outlaw crews who dropped an occasional shell into the city to add force.
